The work of sociologists in the study of dying, death and bereavement dates back to the 1960s in the United States, when the first (and still influential) empirical observational studies looking at the care of people who were dying were conducted within hospitals (Glaser and Strauss 1965, 1968, Sudnow 1967, Strauss 1970). Such research fundamentally changed the way people thought about the management of dying and death, and brought into sharp relief the experiences of those who were dying ...
