The slave-pen, through whose door Thy victims pass no more, Is there, and there shall the grim block remain At which the slave was sold; while at thy feet Scourges and engines of restraint and pain Moulder and rust by thine eternal seat. There, mid the symbols that proclaim thy crimes, Dwell thou, a warning to the coming times.

Slavery Poems - Poems For Slavery - Poem Hunter

There has been slavery all throughout history. There always will be. Many people create their own form of slavery. Some day, I will create a poem about how James Garfield worked to free and help the American slaves and freedmen. It is a story that needs to be known. Southey wrote my favorite poem - "The Cataract Of Lodore".

Slave Trade Acrostic Poem - engineeringstudymaterial.net

Up from the slave-ship's prison Fierce, bearded heads were thrust 'Now let the sharks look to it, Toss up the dead ones first!' Corpse after corpse came up, Death had been busy there; Where every blow is mercy, Why should the spoiler spare? Corpse after corpse they cast Sullenly from the ship, Yet bloody with the traces Of fetter-link and whip.

The Slave Ships Poem by John Greenleaf Whittier - Poem Hunter

As an artist, I know that in times of despair, self-expression can be one of the only outlets that makes life feel better. And that's exactly what these courageous young women -- each of whom are sex trafficking survivors from Girls Educational and Mentoring Services (GEMS) -- did with their thought-provoking poetry. I was awestruck by the words of these strong and beautiful young women who ...
